

Two Poems . . . . .	Barbara Smith	3
Anthem of the Locusts ( story ) . . . . .	Dean Cadle	4
Appalachian Women in Literature . . . . .	Sidney Farr	10
The Witch of Red Oak Ridge ( poem ) . . . . .	William Paulk	19
Jubilee ( story ) . . . . .	George Strange	20
Old, Early and Elizabethan English in the Southern Mountains . . . . .	Josiah H. Combs	27
The Civil War and Church Schisms in Southern Appalachia . . . . .	Richard A. Humphrey	38
Two Poems . . . . .	Scotty Lee Hamilton	52
By Way of the Forked Stick ( story ) . . . . .	Billy C. Clark	53
The Powell Twins on Saturday Night ( poem ) . . . . .	William Paulk	63
River of Earth: Mythic Consciousness in the Works of James Still . . . . .	Rebecca L. Briley	64

COVER DESIGN: Jeemes Akers of Alice Lloyd College

CREDITS & NOTATIONS

None of the contributors to this issue are new. Barbara Smith is head of the Department of English, Alderson-Broadus College, Philippi, West Virginia. Dean Cadle is a librarian at the University of North Carolina at Asheville. William Paulk teaches at Western Carolina University. George Strange can be found in and around Berea College. Josiah H. Combs, an early student of Appalachian speech and folklore, printed this article in Dialect Notes in 1916. Richard Alan Humphrey teaches in the Department of Philosophy and Religion at Appalachian State University, Boone, N. C. Scotty Lee Hamilton has lived for some time in Michigan—an Appalachian migrant. Billy C. Clark, a well-known Kentucky author has taught at Somerset Community College, Somerset, Kentucky, for many years. Rebecca L. Briley lives in Louisville, Kentucky. The large amount of material on religion is partly happenstance.

