ABOUT OUR COVER: Margo Adams lives and works in Russell, Kentucky. This painting is a watercolor depicting a winter creek in the Carter Cave area of Carter County, Kentucky. The painting is in a private collection in the state and no prints are available. The artist graciously gave the editor permission to reproduce black and white prints of some of her other paintings and use them throughout this issue of Appalachian Heritage.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two errors in the fall issue are deeply regretted and I wish to apologize for any inconvenience resulting from them. (1) Dean Cadle's photograph of James Still on page 21 was credited to Warren Brunner, and (2) a photograph by Earl Palmer on page 44 was not credited to him.
